Patient Stories

Harry

Harry, a 30-year old Marine veteran was seeing a psychiatrist at the VA for PTSD symptoms arising from combat in Operation Enduring Freedom. His psychiatrist referred him to the LegalHealth clinic after he had been denied unemployment benefits. His employer of 10 years said he had been fired for misconduct. LegalHealth represented Harry on appeal and argued that the alleged misconduct was an isolated incident of poor judgment arising from PTSD symptoms — flashbacks and loss of concentration. The appeal was successful and Harry will now receive $350 weekly retroactive 3 months. During the intake, the LegalHealth learned that Tony had received a general discharge but should have qualified for an honorable discharge. His LegalHealth attorney submitted evidence supporting the upgrade, which Harry received and can now include on his resume as he begins his search for new employment.

John

Mark is a 65 year old veteran of the Army who served during the Vietnam War. He goes to the VA for medical care for his high blood pressure and diabetes. Mark also receives VA benefits. After his granddaughter's father passed away and mother's rights were terminated 10 years ago, Mark has been the guardian for and raised his 15 year old granddaughter. Mark was referred to the LegalHealth clinic because he wants to adopt his granddaughter and do advance planning for himself. His LegalHealth attorney is preparing the adoption paperwork which will be filed in Family Court for approval. Once the adoption is final, Mark will receive increased VA benefits for his adopted child. LegalHealth is also drafting a will that will specify his sister as the successor guardian should Mark pass away, and will complete other advance planning documents including a power of attorney.
